IN THE VALLEY.

THE MUSIC OF PROGRESS AND PROS-PERITY IN THE SHENANDOAB.

Atl Virginia is Booming Rend Not Forgotten-To Present Him a New Such of Southern Silk.

'Home to our mountains' as usual every summer, our little party came a few weeks ago to visit our old homethe Valley of Virginia. We thought we had left Washington full of people for the season of the year, but from the numbers we find in every town and watering place we might think the cities were depopulated. The Shenandoah Valley never looked more beautiful. I see it often, but it is always fresh and fair to me. Old General Spinner, in a letter to the writer, expressed his admiration of the scenery here, and regreted that the painful malady on his face would not allow him to sojourn awhile and enjoy it.

I was prepared to find some changes since last summer, but not for the lively isoom that greeted me first at Front Royal, at the entrance of the Valley, and the most flourishing town on the Shenandoah Valley Rallroad. Here we found them leveling hills and graffing streets and avenues between Front Royal and Rive.ton, and preparing to build a new bridge across the river.
Two railroads that now run near it will go through it, one of them a direct line to Washington city, and a branch of the S. V. B. B. will be commenced Luray over trestles, so high and so dangerous in appearance that it makes a body feel like saying their prayers, if anything would, and it is beem, boom, boom, boom again. We wonfor where the people are to come from to fill up all these places until we re-member that the cyclones and grass-hoppers in the West and the unsettled itical and financial status of the South may have changed the tide of emigration. This is a large country. and it is the age of progress and mo-tion. The people will move and must stop somewhere. What more natural than that the vast undeveloped indiceral resources in Virginia should attract at ention and capital? On we speed, ad miring the beautiful view of mountains valleys and river, past Shenandoah, another boom, and on to Elkton, where we find another boom and friends at the depot to welcone us.

Boom, boom, boom! We hear it all around, and we like it, because this time it is not the boom of canon or the bugle call "to arms," but the sound of the hammer and the music of progress and prosperity.

We have been feasted on water nelons, Bear Lithia water and all sort of good things, with dancing and par-tiles for the young people, until we had well nigh forgotten all about Speaker Reed down in Washington this warm weather making laws to raise taxes, choice ballot-boxes, appropriations to buy up the remnant of his party, using salve on old seres and wiping the and things do not always turn out as we think they will, but we believe Mr. Speaker Reed's bayonets will help us to elect a Democratic President next time, and we are very much obliged to him. Virginia ladies do not want suffrage, for we have confidence in our men, and believe there are noble states-men enough left, and chivalry also to save our country, but we are patriotic and there is one thing we can and will closer contact and the trade, walled been carried 200 passengers, would have been wrecked. Fortunately, the royal traveler escaped with very slight contusions. All the windows on the same on Southern soil and woven by our own
